CARROLL AIMS A HARD BLOW AT MURPHY.

Declares in Tammany Meeting that New Leader Is in Interest of Croker.

LEADERS MUCH EXCITED.

Rival of Murphy Declares Croker Is Selling Out English Estate and Will Locate at Richfield Springs.

A great fight is now on in Tammany Hall.

The Executive Committee, called to elect Charles F. Murphy as the leader, went into session at 4.45 o'clock.

John F. Carroll, who hurried back from Saratoga, went into the meeting to make the fight of his life in opposition to the Murphy programme.

It was announced that Carroll would offer a resolution placing the control of Tammany in the hands of the Executive Committee without a single-headed leadership.

Attack on Croker.

This was the policy advocated by Carroll at the time the triumvirate were chosen. Carroll said he would make a speech declaring that Murphy was to be chosen leader solely in the interest of Richard Croker. He charged that Croker was selling his English estate at Wantage with the intention of returning to this country and buying an estate at Richfield Springs.

The Murphy men had been swarming about the wigwam all day. They were much disturbed by the attitude of Carroll and his followers. Several plans were adopted and then abandoned.

It was first decided to revive the old Finance Committee, with Haffen as a member to represent the Bronx, and Falk as a new member. Haffen balked at the proposition.

When the committee finally met the programme was to simply declare Murphy the leader of Tammany Hall.

It was said that Haffen would withdraw from Tammany and form an independent organization in the Bronx.

Cold Shoulder for Devery.

Much to his surprise "Big Bill" Devery got the cold shoulder at the Wigwam. He called there just before the meeting began, but his reception was a chilly one. He shook hands with Senator Plunkitt, whose attitude was not cordial. Then he spoke to Leader Dowling, who merely said "hello."

Devery then approached Charles F. Murphy, whom he designated as "Sport" in his famous interview with The World's cartoonist, Tow Powers.

"Howdy do, Charley," said Devery as he put out his hand.

Murphy gave him a cold stare. "Hello!" he said, as he gave Devery a very formal handshake. Then Murphy turned his attention to some one else.

UP-STATE DEMOCRATS DISOWN DEVERY.

Although Tammany has invited Devery into its councils, notice has been served by the Democratic State leaders that he must be squelched so far as the State convention is concerned.

A conference on Mr. Devery took place at the Hoffman House. There were present Norman E. Mack, John B. Stanchfield, Representative Griggs, of Georgia, Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, and several other Democrats of prominence.

Devery is worrying the up-State Democrats considerably just at present. They want him kept out of the State convention, but all are fearful of bringing on a bitter fight if they attempt it. They are arguing that Devery is a part of Tammany Hall, and that it is up to Tammany to see that he does not force himself into the State convention.

When the question of squelching was put to Mr. Murphy he just listened. He said nothing and walked away.

The Democrats from up the State want either Sheehan or Goodwin to contest Devery's election, but both have declined.

PRESIDENT'S EYES EXAMINED BY SPECIALIST.

Oculist Makes Rapid Diagnosis as Mr. Roosevelt Starts for the West.

WILL TALK ON TRUSTS.

Surrounded by Secret Service Guards the Chief Executive Leaves Jersey City on His Special Train.

President Roosevelt started on his Western trip from the Pennsylvania station in Jersey City at 2.14 o'clock to-day. His special train consisted of six cars.

The Presidential party on board the yacht Sylph arrived at the private landing of the New York Yacht Club, at the foot of East Twenty-fifth street, at 1 o'clock.

Quite a crowd had been standing about the wharf all morning in the rain, in anticipation of seeing the President. As the President stepped ashore he was cheered. He acknowledged this by raising his hat. He wore a tan-colored rain coat and soft hat.

Has His Eyes Examined.

Here a specialist was waiting, who examined the President's eyes, being closeted with him for about five minutes.

Entering carriages, the party was driven to the West Twenty-third street ferry. No ferry-boat was in the slip when the President arrived, and while waiting for it he walked about the ferry-house. He was closely guarded by Secret-Service men everywhere.

The President is accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou, Assistant Secretaries Loeb and Barnes, Dr. Lung and others of the personal staff, representatives of the press and two photographers. During the trip Secretaries Shaw and Wilson will be with the President.

His Chief Subject, Trusts.

The announced retirement of Speaker Henderson because of the movement to cut the tariff on goods manufactured by trusts is taken by the Republican campaign managers to mean that President Roosevelt will deal in his speeches mostly with trusts.

During the entire trip the President will be attended by a guard of secret detectives such as never was given to a President on a trip before. Every precaution is to be taken to prevent the possibility of there being no public receptions and no promiscuous handshaking. The President will shake hands only with the chairman of the reception committee at each place.

At each stop secret-service men will be in the crowd long before the train arrives. These detectives will travel in relays. The various squads will be strung out along the route and as soon as the Presidential special passes through the men in that station will take the next fast train for a station several stops ahead, thus doubling on the President so that they can be in the crowd several hours before the train arrives.

On the train itself there will be six secret-service men and four will alight as soon as the train stops and take advantageous places in the crowd. Two will remain with the President all the time.

CROKER MADE PRESIDENT OF FIRE CHIEFS

International Association Unanimously Elects Him as Its President.

HE SAYS "I'M INNOCENT."

"If I Were Guilty of Any Charges Which May Be Preferred," He Says, "I Would Not Think of Accepting."

Chief Edward F. Croker, of the New York Fire Department, was today unanimously elected President of the International Association of Fire Engineers. He was put in nomination by Chief Brophy, of Boston, who has been at the head of the Fire Department there for many years. The nomination was seconded by Capt. Devine, of Salt Lake City.

After the election of Chief Croker it was decided by a vote of 95 to 75 to hold the next convention at Atlantic City rather than at Seattle, Wash.

Croker Says, "I'm Innocent."

Chief Croker made a speech after his election in which he thanked the association for the compliment and honor.

"I am innocent of any charges," declared the Chief. "I do not know of any charges, but whatever they are I am innocent of them."

"Were I guilty or in the least afraid I would not accept this high office, as I would not care to cast a stain upon the fair name of the association."

Chief Croker's speech was wildly applauded.

Major Edward Hughes, of Louisville, was made First Vice-President, and Henry A. Hillis, of Wyoming, O., was for the third time elected Secretary.

John F. Stagg was elected Second Vice-President, and B. C. Larkin, of Dayton, O., was made Treasurer.

The entertainment for the last day includes a trip to Fire Headquarters, where an exhibition of life saving, the School of Instruction, the receiving of an alarm and the turning out of the engine companies will be given and a visit made to the different departments in Fire Headquarters, the Telegraph Bureau and Bureau of Combustibles. In the evening there will be a band concert, dancing and refreshments.

TUG RAMMED FERRY-BOAT.

The Mattie Slightly Damaged the New York.

While entering the slip at the foot of Whitehall street the Brooklyn ferry-boat New York was run into by the tug Mattie, and a few feet of the deck railing torn off.

There was no excitement on board the ferry-boat. For a time it looked as though the tug would upset, but it righted itself.

The accident was caused by the pilot of the tug trying to crowd in between the ferry-boat and a boat which was rounding the Battery.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, Sept. 19.—In spite of two days' drizzle the track remained fast at Gravesend and the talent were not compelled to dig into the recesses of their dope books in order to unearth the mud runners. Dry track makes form more consistent, if such a thing is possible, these days. Racegoers are getting a bit used to skyrocket performances of horses from certain stables.

The card to-day was scarcely as interesting as that of yesterday. There was plenty of quantity, the fields being very heavy in several of the events, but quality is lacking sadly. The racing promised to be fairly interesting nevertheless.

There was no stake feature or the card, this being the usual off Friday. The attendance was not up to the mark, showing quite a falling off. This is generally the rule of Fridays, however.

Nash Turner, who is at present head jockey to William C. Whitney, has received a handsome offer from W. K. Vanderbilt to ride in France next season. Turner may accept, as the weights in this country will not enable him to accept many mounts here next year. Stain began to fall soon after the first race.

MURPHY ELECTED LEADER.

DEVERY'S ELECTION CONTESTED.

Charles F. Murphy was this afternoon elected leader of Tammany Hall. The resolution was offered by Louis F. Haffen, Senator Plunkitt spoke in favor of it and John F. Carroll against it. Carroll did not make the promised attack on Croker. The resolution naming Murphy was adopted by a vote of 27 to 9.

After the election it developed that there is to be a contest against Devery. The big ex-Chief sent in a resolution providing that the convention to elect delegates to the State Convention should be held at his home instead of the Goodwin headquarters. Goodwin objected and said he intended to contest the election of Devery on the ground that it was secured by fraud. No action was taken on Devery's request.

HENRY KLEINER HANGS HIMSELF.

Henry Kleiner, forty-four years old, a waiter, living at No. 230 West Fifteenth street, committed suicide this afternoon by hanging himself.

Chief of Detectives Titus Says that His Force Is Now Endeavoring to Capture a Man of that Description.

Weight and Strap Found on Murdered Woman's Body Identified by Person Who Rented Buggy to Dark-Featured Man.

REMARKABLE FEATURES OF THE CANAL TRAGEDY.

The woman, according to the police, was killed in the Tenderloin Tuesday night, probably near her home.

The murderer is believed to be a swarthy man.

He is supposed to have packed the body in a trunk and kept it in his room until Wednesday afternoon.

Then the theory is that he went to Hoboken, where he hired a buggy large enough to carry a trunk, saying he wanted to take his sister from a train.

Coming back to New York, he loaded the trunk containing the body in the buggy and drove to New Jersey.

At a lonely spot just outside Jersey City he took the body from the trunk, weighted it with the hitching strap and weight that was in the buggy and sank it in the Morris Canal.

How he disposed of the trunk is not clear. He returned the buggy to the Hoboken livery stable Thursday morning.

THE MAN WHO HIRED THE BUGGY.

He was about thirty years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighed about 130 pounds, was rather well dressed, had a swarthy complexion, a hooked nose, and, I believe, a small dark mustache. I wouldn't swear to the mustache.—Description furnished to the police by Liveryman Charles K. Evans.

Capt. Titus, Chief of the Detective Bureau, announced this afternoon that his force is now trying to capture a man who was an ardent admirer of Anna Neilson, or Mrs. Pulitzer, who was murdered and her body thrown into the Morris Canal yesterday morning.

The mysterious swarthy man with a small mustache, who called on Mrs. Pulitzer last Tuesday afternoon and was supposed to be connected with the murder, walked into The Evening World office this afternoon with explanations.

"I am the man," he said, "who called on Mrs. Pulitzer and went to her room Tuesday afternoon. As soon as I saw the story about it in The Evening World I thought I had better come around and tell the truth.

"I am an inspector for an instalment house. The woman bought a watch from us some time ago and was behind in her payments. I went around to see her about it. She promised that she would mail a remittance on Friday night.

"I was not in the room very long. As I went down the stairs she came to the baluster and called out that I would hear from her sure on Friday.

HAD SEEN HER SEVERAL TIMES.

"I had seen her a number of times when she lived at No. 209 West Forty-sixth street. A woman named Stella Edgars introduced her to me and I sold her a watch. I don't want my name mixed up in this thing, but I certainly am the mysterious man."

The man answers the description of the caller furnished by Miss Edith Bowman, the actress. He is swarthy of complexion, has a small moustache, wears a derby, a light top coat and a dark suit of clothes.

The Evening World notified Capt. Titus by telephone of the story of the instalment inspector.

"That disposes of one suspected man," he said, "but there are others. We have in mind one man in particular who was very attentive to this girl. Thus far we have been unable to get hold of him."

SEEK MAN WHO HIRED BUGGY.

The man who hired the buggy in which the murdered woman was carried to the Morris Canal is the key to the mystery.

Out of the maze of clues and conflicting statements comes the coherent story of Charles K. Evans, a livery stable keeper at No. 130 Washington street, Hoboken, which he told to the police to-day. He went to Police Headquarters in Hoboken and immediately recognized the strap and weight which were affixed to the woman's body before she was thrown into the canal. He said the articles
